

Marion News

Now...

Legal work is under way at the present time to transfer the Bowman springs northwest of Marion from the water department to the city. The springs which are near the Bowman Woods and Linnwood Knolls housing developments of Cedar Rapids and Marion were abandoned in 1951. This picture was taken last week at the site of the springs. Part of the wall of the reservoir still stands with Dry creek in front.

Then...

This picture of Bowman springs was taken some time between 1885 and 1900, Robert Hess, water department superintendent, said. The springs are in the process of being transferred from ownership by the water department to the city of Marion. Building in the picture was the water reservoir. The roof and part of the wall have caved in and the springs were abandoned as part of Marion's water supply in 1951.

12 To Be Honored for 444 Years of Service

IOWA CITY — Twelve retiring staff members, who have a combined total of 444 years of service to the University of Iowa, will be honored Tuesday night at a faculty recognition dinner.

The 12 honorees and their years of service are: Leland D. Anderson, professor and head of dental technology, 28 years; Clarence P. Berg, professor of biochemistry, 39; William D. Coder, director of conferences and institutes, 29; Willis M. Fowler, professor of internal medicine, 40; H. Clay Harshbarger, chairman of the department of speech, 39; Agnes Kurz, senior chemist at the state hygienic laboratory, 26; Don Lewis, professor of psychology, 31; Carl Menzer, director of WSUI radio, 45; Paul R. Olson, professor of economics, 39; Dr. William D. Paul, professor of rehabilitation and physical medicine, 38; Alice White, administrative assistant in the college of medicine, 45; and Eric Wilson, editor of sports information, 45.

Set Dinner
Prof. Jerry Kollros, chairman of the faculty senate and council, will preside at the dinner in the Iowa Memorial union main ballroom. Representatives of the honor guests' respective departments will introduce them, and U. of I. President Howard R. Bowen will present certificates of recognition. The event begins at 6:30 p.m.

Dr. Anderson, a native of Watertown, Wis., first came to the U. of I. in 1940 as a member of the college of dentistry faculty. Since 1955 he has been the head of the dental technology department.

Professor Berg, who began his service to the U. of I. in 1929 as an instructor in biochemistry, has done considerable research and writing on the chemistry of amino acids. He is a native of Mead, Neb.

Dr. Coder, director of the U. of I. office of conference and institutes, first came to the university in 1939 as an associate professor of dramatic art. In his position in the conferences office, Dr. Coder handles the operation of hundreds of conferences and institutes at the U. of I. with annual registrations in the thousands. He is a native of Cumberland, Md.

Dr. Fowler, who began his 40 years of service at the U. of I. as a resident in University hospitals in 1928, has been a professor of internal medicine since 1944. He is a native of Walton, N. Y.

Professor Harshbarger, chairman of the department of speech and dramatic art at the U. of I. since 1956, joined the faculty in 1929. He was a pioneer in radio speech instruction. He is a native of Quimby.

Miss Kurz, who is the senior chemist at the state hygienic laboratory in Iowa City, began her service to the U. of I. in 1942. She is a native of Iowa City.

Professor Lewis, a native of Mesa, Ariz., has served the U. of I. since 1933. His 1960 book entitled "Quantitative Methods in Psychology" was the first text available for courses in the area of mathematical psychology.

Radio Career
Professor Menzer, a native of Lone Tree, may have the longest career in broadcasting in the U.S. A professor of electrical engineering, Menzer has directed the U. of I. radio station, WSUI, for 45 years. He began his career in radio in 1917—three years before commercial radio began.

Professor Olson, who was born in Red Oak, joined the U. of I. faculty in 1931. He is a former chairman of the economics department and served as acting director of the U. of I.'s bureau of business and economic research.

Dr. Paul, who is professor of rehabilitation and physical medicine and director of the U. of I. polio and rehabilitation unit, began his career here in 1923. He has developed a number of new drugs, including Bufferin, Roloids and Theoglycinate. For 30 years he has served as medical director of varsity athletics at the U. of I. A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., Dr. Paul is past president of the American Congress of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation and the Society of Physical Medicine.

Miss White is an administrative assistant in the office of the U. of I. college of medicine. A native of Davenport, she joined the staff in 1923.

Wilson, a native of Iowa City, joined the U. of I. staff in 1923, as a member of the athletic publicity staff. He served for more than 20 years as an editor in the university news service before taking his present position as editor of sports information. An outstanding track performer while a U. of I. student, Wilson represented the U.S. in the 1924 Olympics.

Mayor Honored
BROOKLYN — Mayor Clem De Meulenaere was honored recently by the Grinnell Kiwanis club as Poweshiek county's outstanding senior citizen.
